WHO WON NINETY-ONE?

As Time escorts 1991 around the last bend, the story of the year will be how Capitalism did Communism in. GKG X/91 advised against giving too much waight to this oversimplification because in a year or so it will beome more apparent that whenever Glasnost rears its ugly head Perestroika cannot be far behind.

The Glasnost of Khruschev's initial condemnation of Stalinism was carried to its logical conclusion by Andropov and Gorbachev on the second day of September 1983. On that day Perestroika withdrew the USSR's PWM (Professional War Machine) from the international arm-race. In silent condemnation of the USA, and perceiving the enemy as capable of sacrificing 269 lives on the altar of anti-Communism in order to win in Evil-Empire imagery, the men in the Kremlin thrust Peace unashamedly up-front and center.

USA's PWM, finding itself face to face with Peace, an unarmed enemy, folded up Capitalism's nukes, missiles and B-2's and quietly stole away.

Next the Soviet Union disbanded the Warsaw Pact and eastern Europe was freed to govern at will. The loosened winds of Change blew down the Berlin Wall, Germany was re-united and sometime later at Reykjavik Reagan-Bush signed on the good ship Disarmament. As designed, CPSU (Communist Party Soviet Union) crumped internally as Peace replacing Force, infiltrated every ...almost every ... nook and cranny of the neighborhood we all call Earth.

MSG's (Mikail S Gorbachev's) patience thruogh the idiocy of his quasi-partner's excursions into Lybia, Panama and Iraq has been sorely tried as the capitlaists change him from Socialist State Capitalism to individual Capitalism, best expressed by MOI. The assist by western Capitalism brought on the demise of the Soviet-brand of Socialism; Communism is yet to be born.

From this Ivory Tower, Communism has always been perceived as the goal, the utopia at the end of the rainbow, where happiness is captured and .... the State shall witheraway.

It was the Socialist bandwagon that carried its Comminist cohorts kicking and screaming down the yellow brick road to the better life for all Earthlings: Communism, Communalism, Anarchism.

Across the Pond, it was the Bi-Partisan Party members who rode the Capitalist bandwagon down the profit-paved boulevard toward Democracy ... also kicking and sceaming the while. When the kickers and screamers pool their plusses and jettison their minusses they'll be surprised to find their two wagons going in the same direction.

Four months before USA's PWM had him assassinated, Maurice Bishop, speaking in New York City, agreed with Abraham Lincoln's definition of Democracy. From the Prime Minister of a Socialist government, this was more than Reagan-Bush could stomach.

> .... We accept the well-known definition of Abraham Lincoln. Lincoln said of democracy that it is government of, for and by the people. I accept that; it's a good definition. But if it is government of, for and by the people, then it cannot be just government of the people you elect. It also has to be for the people and it also has to be by them. They have to have a way of participating -- that is what the word "by" means. And if that is absent, you don't really have a democracy .....

(emphasis in the original Maurice Bishop Speaks, p 302)

It was the calm before the storm, the last straw that broke the idiotological camel's back: EXPLO 007 over the Sea of Okhotsk and 54 days later the invasion of Grenada. Since then Capitalism has kept warmongering alive in Lybia, Panama, Iraq and now once again Lybia over the explosion of Pan Am 103.

As the 20th of the month closes in on us all, rejoice that Hollywood's impact will free the collective psyche that has been scared to enjoy its own intuitive convictions : ask the President "if Oswald didn't do it, who the hell did?" He knows the answer.

The Lone Assassin Myth will be firmly established on New Year's Day as the Lone Assassin Fairy Tale. Don't be scared to join in the fun. Remember the debt owed the first-wave critics of the Warren Report. THE ROBERT F KENNEDY ASSASSINATION New Revelations on The Conspiracy & Coverup by Philip H Melanson (Shapolsky, NY)

The complexity of this two-gun-firing murder has been effectively confabulated by the first-rate activities of the prime investigatory agency, LAPD (Los Angeles Police Dept). First-rate in the back-o'-me-hand sense: it has de-railed every effort, simply by destroying evidence, designed to show the assassin to be Cesar and leave Sirhan in his proper role of Patsy. He remains in most people's minds as the "convicted assassin".

The author's revelations do not come out and specifically name Cesar the assassin but they do come within a whisker of assuring the reader Sirhan is the patsy. We have learned to be thankful for any and all small favors.

With witnesses placing Sirhan at distances no closer than 18 inches and as much as 108 inches, always in front of the Candidate, the author makes it as clear as academia allows that Sirhan's could not be the fatal gun that fired the fatal bullet into the back of RFK's head from a range of less than 2 (repeat two) inches.

GKG having been on record for at least ten years that Sirhan could not have killed RFK...ergo Cesar did ... these new revelations are soemthing less than startling.

With Cesar the only other person with powder burns on his body (the Candidate had them on his right ear) there seems to be little excuse for not naming Cesar as the assassin. Some day even the publishers' counsels are going to change their tunes and run with the truth.

The three sketches (page 5) are included for two reasons; 1) because Figs 1 & 2 show what LIFE, this month refers to as the "cottage industry" at work ... here is the result of two researchers diving into the fray as soon as possible and coming up with the vital information they were then able to have published in the LA Free Press. With the three extra bullets they detailed, the count goes over eight, 8 and that means two guns (as noted in Goodnight Mr Callabash, Sweetie-Pie does what we all should have done years ago. She names Sirhan as the Second Gun, therby placing Cesar in his rightful position as Number One Gun) GKG wishes to be sure everyone appreciates what Lillian Castellano and Floyd Nelson actually did...we are all in their debt.

And secondly, the matter the author found and detailed about that new witness (new to this writer) Lisa Urso. She has been included dotted in Fig 3 because she was so close to Sirhan and was able to see the entire murder within five or six feet. It is extraordinary that Cesar was never a factor for her...of course she was watching Sirhan when suddenly he started firing. It is of more than passing interest that she saw the double motion caused by the shot from behind the Candidate's head...forward then backward (page 124).... with GKG's record on Z-312-313 in Dealey Plaza you'll have to expect Urso to be our heroine.

the natural confusion is in showing the fire-escape, outside stairway, on this level's plan. it starts down from the floor below this

Lillian Castellano & Floyd Nelson went into the pantry, et al, right after the shooting and measured as much as they could - this is research at its zenith.. this is why we know what happened.. forget that it is not slick and uncomplicated.. this is the raw data with the three bullets' flightpaths finalized below

GKG·5 .. XII/91

The chapter on Motive and Memory is in pleasant contrast to the evasivness in naming the assassin.

> ... As with everything in this case, the substance of the notebook has been generally misunderstood.... 'Robert Kennedy must be sacrificed for the cause of poor exploited people,' ' Kennedy must fall'....
> The fact is , however, that this was not the persistent theme, nor was it as persistent as other themes ....(and) raises the question about the depth of Sirhan's alleged fixation for eliminating Kennedy.
> The notebook was sometimes referred to by authorities and the media as a diary, which it is not. Pages of strange, repetitive writing are interspersed with classroom notes that he took at Pasadena State College as well as with blank pages. The entries ..... seem to have been placed on any blank page that turned up when Sirhan opened the book ....

> RFK was not his major preoccupation. Excluding blank pages and classroom notes, there are 48 pages of weird entries ... Only two refer to killing Kennedy, or to Kennedy at all ...

> What is most incredible and casts doubt on his motive for the assassination is that the notebook is devoid of any reference to the alleged spark for Sirhan's violent political mind set -- not a single reference to jets or bombers, not a single reference to Zionism, Isreal, Palestine, occupation, genocide, homeland or any of the themes or buzzwordsfor Middle East politics [the terms Sirhan would spout at his trial as propelling him to murder]....
> (p 156)

> [the notebook] makes a better case that Sirhan was some sort of anti-imperialist hired gun than it does he was an anti-Zionist political fanatic.....
> (p 157)

This is the professor at his best; this is real academic research. GKG dwells on this simply because motive is lacking in all the Lone Assassin Myths and here is a fine analysis of the best evidence the prosecution had which crumples it up and chucks it in the nearest ashcan.

As the author shows over and over again, the LAPD and the District Attorney's office focused on everything that would be helpful to their objective of easing Sirhan into the electric chair. If it needs an "angle", twist it. If it favors innocence bamboozle the bearer and if that doesn't work, ignore it.

Sirhan wounded perhaps as many as five people, but, as Melanson shows over and over again, no rational person can name him assassin. For the GKG it has always been enough to point to the two-inch vs the 48-inch range. Melanson's notebook analysis is most welcome.

RFK by Melanson (conclusion)

The above chapter leads naturally into the Robot Assassin and Hollywood Hyp. Not only does the professor deal with the nether/other/mystical world of hypnosis but he also becomes enmeshed in it. His telling is an explanation of Sirhan from first-hand experience which journalists would deem "chilling". His bout with a hypnotist, discussion at lunch and mesmerization afterward, is the human side of a professor which seldom appears in print.

> ... As he drew, his voice became repetitive and droning .... He punctuated the mesmerizing doodling with very pronounced eye contact .... by now the "diagram" was starting to look like a steam-bath version of Sirhan's weird doodling. This reminded me of the danger of the situation and my defense mechanisms kicked in....
> I refused eye contact with Dr Stangetrance. I looked away from the diagram and began to concentrate very heavily on which restaurant I'd choose for dinner. I made it away from him ... the reader will have to take my word that I escaped ...
> (pp 213-4)

For those who have always had the inclination to see Sirhan as a first cousin to the Manchurian Candidate, this book can only nudge you on towards the truth of your own convictions. GKG sees it as the way to go.

> ... The smoking gun for the hypno-programmed assassination of Senator Robert F Kennedy lies in the mind of Sirhan Sirhan. Indeed, there are some good clues to go on in trying to find it - clues that could help clarify any new data culled from the shadows of Sirhan's memory by a highly skilled deprogrammer.
> (p 25)

The professor points out that this may not be as easy as you think. Dr Eduard Simpson was on the verge of doing exactly what is required when the prison terminated the doctor's visits to Sirhan....to allow the doctor to spend more time with the other prisoners..(p 165)

Professor Melanson's book is a fine addition to the library of anyone hooked on the conspiracy that is responsible for the coup d'etat and its protection. GKG only wishes the publisher had given the proper editing time and re-arranging certain things so the story did not jump quite so much. Also a few diagrams would have clarified some of the discrepancies that were not ironed out properly. On the whole there are no real complaints ....Enjoy it. ▼
